OK nice try. Any time you have a feed back loop it is negative so you have control. Positive feedback would cause the amplifier to the maximum output at all times or in other words would be out of control like Ms.
Spears.

This is a disaster just waiting to happen. The lower SW bands at night are similar to AMBCB where I can get more than one station on a frequency. If they turn on those DRM transmitters wiping out at least three channels at a time it is going to reduce many listening opportunities. I don't know about you but just the thought of this makes me sick.

Godspeed to the peaceful Tibetans in their struggle to stop the genocide being perpetrated upon them by the despicable and ruthless totalitarian regime in communist China.

Don't expect the corporate controlled media in America to devote much coverage of this historic event. They can't be bothered, not with American Idol, the Natalie Holloway saga and the latest on Britney Spears to be endlessly regurgitated and dissected.

It will be especially interesting to see how the Fox Noise channel covers this considering CONservative (heavy emphasis on the CON as in CON artist) owner Rupert Murdoch's cozy relationship with the communist ruling elite in China. His wife is from mainland China and the happy couple recently built a mansion just outside of Beijing.

Incidentally, Bruce Dover has written a book about Murdoch and China that has been effectively spiked. In it he describes Murdoch's pandering about in China. Relating anecdotes about Murdoch's appetite for kissing Red Chinese ass, he relates the many times the Murdochs went out of their way to promote Beijing's party propaganda; Rupert's spiking the memoirs of free Hong Kong's last British colonial governor Chris Patten; Murdoch's paying millions of dollars to publish dictator Deng Xiaoping's daughter's fawning hagiography of her father; Rupert's degradation of the Dalai Lama as "a very political old monk shuffling around in Gucci shoes;" son James' description of the peaceful Falun Gong spiritual movement as a "dangerous apocalyptic cult."

It is astonishing that the American public has been dumbed down to the point that they actually believe the crap this creep's media empire spews out via television, newspapers and magazines on a daily basis. Like a multi-billionaire member of the elite ruling class has average Joe American's best interest at heart. When the last time a rich person did anything for you? Yeah me neither.

Barry Goldwater must spin in his grave when he hears the term "conservative" applied to the likes of Rupert Murdoch, Rush Limbaugh and the legions of talk radio screamers who in reality are millionaire errand boys paid to promote and protect the interests of the elite oligarchy that rules America.

- You can also carry away EMF by wrapping gnd around
- your wire NOT on the bare wire, just close as a bleed.

OK So you have a Noisy AC Mains Ground; and that's all the Ground you got.

Situation : You are stuck with only using the AC Mains Ground in your Seventh Story Apartment / Condo : It is 84+ Feet down to the Earth {Ground} and You Cna't Get There. - Bummer ! ;-{

1 - Use the Cold Water Pipe or AC Mains Ground as your Radio/Shack's Grounding-Point.
-ps- Try them Both and also try the Outside Looking "Metal" Window Frames of your Apartment / Condo many times they are a better Grounding Point then either the Cold Water Pipe or AC Mains Ground {There is a Reason and a Rational for that : Anyone know both ?}

=BUT= I Got Noise coming into my Radio / Receiver from my Grounding Point.- Bummer Again ! ;-{

First try One or more Snap-On Ferrite Beads in your Ground Wire run from the Grounding-Point to your Radios and Equipment.
http://linearparts.com/images/FCL-2-420x315.jpg
http://www.intermark-usa.com/products/EMC/Ferrite/images/TFCK_shohin2.jpg

2 - Alternattive to Snap-On Ferrite Beads is a Donut Magnet.
http://www.skycraftsurplus.com/ProductImages/sk1979.jpg Route the Ground Wire through the Donut Hole several times and space the Winding out around the outer-edge of the Donut Magnet; usually 5~6 Wraps will do.
http://www.amalgamate2000.com/radio-hobbies/radio/image8.gif http://www.regionalmfg.com/components/toroid-inductor-5.jpg

3 - OK -but- I ain't got no Snap-On Ferrite Beads; then a 12" piece of ReBar {Solid Iron Object} with the Ground Wire wrapped around the ReBar every 1/2"~1" {10~20 Turns} may help to kill the Noise heard on your Radios coming f rom the GroundingPoint. - http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rebar

Tom-K-in-LA,

First lets take a look at the two Shortwave Listener Antennas :
{ Lets Reason Things Out form a Practical Point of View. }

Situation : Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna
-versus- RF Systems T2FD {Passive} Shortwave Antenna that is rolled-up and placed on the same Window as the Sony had been located in an Apartment.

The Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna is an http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/sw_ant/3676.html
"E" Probe type of Antenna using a relatively small size
Antenna Element* and an Impedance Matching Amplifier Circuit to 'connect' the Antenna Element with the surrounding RF Environment and Amplify and Match that RF Signal from the Antenna Element to the Coax Cable feed-in-line going to the Radio / Receiver.
* Note that the Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna has a very small Loop Antenna Element which is about 19" Diameter when open. This means the Loop Antenna Element has a very small Signal Capture Area which creates very small levels of RF Signals; and these tiny RF Signals must be Amplified for use with a Shortwave Radio /Receiver.
+ Antenna Element : 19" x 3.14 = 60 Inches ~ Five Feet
+ Signal Capture Area : (19"/2)^2 x 3.14 = 283.4 Square
Inches ~ Two Square Feet

The RF Systems T2FD is a Passive (Non-Amplified)
http://www.rf-systems.nl/pdf/t2fd.pdf
Shortwave Antenna that measures about 45 Feet Long
Tip-to-Tip and about 18 Inches (1.5 Feet) Wide Top-Wire to Bottom-Wire; and has about 93 Feet of Wire up in the Air with a Signal Capture Area of 45 x 1.5 = 67.5 Sq. Ft.
The T2FD Antenna is relatively large and it's Signal Capture
Area is relatively Big -with-respect-to- the Sony AN-LP1;
the T2FD Antenna produces a relatively strong level of RF Signals; and the T2FD Antenna does not require an Amplifier to provide good RF Signal Levels to a Radio /
Receiver. -P R O V I D E D- That the T2FD Antenna is Stretched-Out-Fully and Up-in-the-Air.

Tom-K - Your situation has the T2FD Antenna Rolled-Up*
placed in a Window; with may be a Signal Capture Area of about 3-Feet-by-3-Feet = 9 Square Feet. The Wires
of the T2FD Antenna are not stretched-out froming a Loop

-but- Rolled-Up froming four Coils.
* THIS AIN'T A T2FD - It is a HodgePodge of Crossed Wires
-aka- MishMash of Wires with crossed RF Signal Paths.

Take the time to 'find' the best Window in your Apartment
that the Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna
works in : Best Signals and Lowest Noise.

- If I place my RF Systems T2FD partially rolled up
- (too big to unroll all the way) across the window sill,
- will I get even better reception?

IMHO - Maybe -but- Most likely NO.

Question ? Is your Window Sill and Window Frame Metal ?
or Painted / Plastic / Wood Covered Metal ? :
1 - Then keep the Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave
Antenna centered in the Window and away from the Metal.
2 - Then keep the Wires of the RF Systems T2FD Antenna
at least 3~6 Inches away from the Metal.

- I'm wondering if the T2FD will be better than the AN-LP1.

IMHO - Maybe -but- Most likely NO.

- The T2FD is a total RFI killer and really opened up

Good that is what it is supposed to do : When it is Fully Stretched-Out-and Up-in-the-Air and Tilted at 30 Degrees. {It Worked A-OK :o}

- Wondering if it might do the same in NYC,
- but it would be partially unrolled across the window sill.

IMHO - Sorry to say : Most likely NO.

First - Nine (9) Square Feet of Signal Capture Area is a Fraction (1/7th) of 68 Square Feet and you should Not Expect the same RF Signal Levels.

Second - The Wire Antenna Element is no-longer a physically shaped balanced Loop (O) -but- a jumble
of Crossed Wires and Signal Paths.

Third - The Wire Antenna Element is no-longer Out
In-the-Air and away from the Homes Envelope of Man Made Noise : The Wire Antenna Element is
Inside the Appartment and within the Buildings
Envelope of Man Made Noise.

Result : Lower RF Signal Levels plus Higher RF Noise Levels.

- Thanks all.

A loop antenna is NOT an e-probe.

Rest of nonsense deleted.

I noticed this too, but notice that the weird allegations re identity emerged only after people started getting pretty pissed off about the NAMBLA inquiry. This is a very basic strategy: Make the inquiry and perhaps get the information you need. If people get too upset, simply deny that it was actually you who made the inquiry; and set up a couple of different google profiles to "substantiate" this. Should take all of about ten minutes.

By the way, I couldn't get the links to profiles that you posted to work for me, but I think I found the profiles you had in mind by going back to the original thread.

A similar character assassination strategy emerged in RRS last year.
It seems the fake David emerges wherever and whenever conflict is high.

Yes indeed. That's the pattern that jumped out at me as well, although I think it's more than a coincidence. This is most likely a case of multiple profiles belonging to a single poster, rather than multiple posters. D. Eduardo first gets himself into trouble (as "NAMBLA guy", for example) and then relies on fake Eduardo to get him out of trouble, even to the point of bickering with himself over who is the "real" Eduardo. Hardly the first time this sort of thing has happened on usenet.

I don't think fake David and Eduardo are the same person. But I've begun to wonder just who the fake David really is.

- Do the wireless transmitters broadcast AM and FM radio
- back to the earbuds

Malibu Ron,

The Wireless Transmitters accept just about any type of Audio Input and Transmit that Audio to the Wireless EarBuds, EarPhones, or HeadPhones.

-IF- That Audio Input is the Audio from an AM/FM Radio :
Then the Wireless Transmitter 'broadcasts' that Audio using it's own type of Broadcast Technology; whatever it may be.

The Wireless Transmitters do not 'broadcast' the actual AM or FM Radio Signals -unless- They themselves are AM or FM Wireless Transmitters like the C. Crane Co.
"Digital FM Transmitter" which itself is a small low powered FM Radio Transmitter.

hope this helps ~ RHF

Do you really want to have an earbud playing in your ear while sleeping? I ask for a couple of reasons.

1. A ccouple of safety issues. You probably will not hear the telephone ringing. A fire alarm may not be audible.
2. Watch out for hearing damage from long term exposure to high sound levels.
3. Assuming you use an ear bud during the day too, the idea of wearing an earbud just sounds uncomfortable.

Still the devices will be in your ears, so the issues involving safety as well as protracted time in your ears remains.

Note the last CCU Requirement.

If granted, Step One has been taken.

Clear Channel Outlines Sirius-XM Merger Concessions

CLEAR CHANNEL COMMUNICATIONS outlined its most detailed concession requirements in a filing with FCC posted TODAY, should the Commission approve the merger between SIRIUS SATELLITE RADIO INC. and XM SATELLITE RADIO HOLDINGS INC, reports ORBITCAST.COM. While earlier FCC filings have essentially reiterated CLEAR CHANNEL's prior argument that granting the merger would permit for too much spectrum control for a single entity, the filing posted online TODAY gives the most level of detail about merger concessions.

"Were the Commission inclined to approve the merger, nonetheless, it should, at a minimum, impose the following conditions that would be essential to remain even remotely faithful to Commission precedents and policies regarding competition, spectrum and preservation of a viable, locally-oriented, free, over-the-air radio broadcast system," the company wrote in an ex parte filing.

The merger conditions that CLEAR CHANNEL is requesting include:

* No less than 50% of broadcast capacity be made available for lease to create "a viable competitive alternative" to the merged company.
* No less than 5% of capacity be set aside for public interest programming, modeled after the 4-7% requirement for DBS services.
* That Sirius-XM be subject to indecency regulations. Because, "one of the primary potential dangers to free, over-the-air radio posed by this merger is siphoning popular, including 'edgy' content, with consequent loss of advertising revenue."
* Sirius-XM be prohibited from broadcasting local content.
* Sirius-XM be prohibited from receiving local advertising revenue.
* The FCC require that HD Radio capabilities be built in to all satellite radio receivers.

It may do undesirable things, like add directivity.

I was messing around and found that putting my 9:1 transformer at various lengths along the antenna away from the ground rod, I was able to cancel out the neighbor's light dimmers, but only on one band at a time. That meant that it was also nulling any radio stations in that direction, too.

It's very nice of everyone to be so helpful, but before you go too far out on a limb, I would respectfully suggest that you ask "thebrownie" what his ham call is, OR if he has no call, then find out why he is asking about -transmitting- with a ham transceiver. Unless he has a plausible explanation, I would hate to see the fine, helpful folks here unintentionally aiding and abetting a potential bootlegger...

Sadly true and unfortunately most recently illustrated by the great BPL fiasco. "We've already been bought and paid for by our corporate masters -- please don't embarrass us by asking us to follow our own rules regarding interference to other services".

The Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna is an

+ Antenna Element : 19" x 3.14 = 60 Inches ~ Five Feet of Wire
+ Signal Capture Area : (19"/2)^2 x 3.14 = 283.4 Square Inches
~ Two Square Feet

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
The RF Systems T2FD is a Passive (Non-Amplified)
http://www.rf-systems.nl/pdf/t2fd.pdf
Shortwave Antenna that measures about 45 Feet Long
Tip-to-Tip and about 18 Inches (1.5 Feet) Wide Top-Wire to Bottom-Wire; and has about 93 Feet of Wire up in the Air with a Signal Capture Area of 45 x 1.5 = 67.5 Sq. Ft.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
The T2FD Antenna is relatively large and it's Signal Capture
Area is relatively Big -with-respect-to- the Sony AN-LP1;

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
the T2FD Antenna produces a relatively strong level of RF Signals; and the T2FD Antenna does not require an Amplifier to provide good RF Signal Levels to a Radio /
Receiver. -P R O V I D E D- That the T2FD Antenna is Stretched-Out-Fully and Up-in-the-Air.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Tom-K - Your situation has the T2FD Antenna Rolled-Up*
placed in a Window; with may be a Signal Capture Area of about 3-Feet-by-3-Feet = 9 Square Feet. The Wires
of the T2FD Antenna are not stretched-out froming a Loop
-but- Rolled-Up froming four Coils.
* THIS AIN'T A T2FD - It is a HodgePodge of Crossed Wires
-aka- MishMash of Wires with crossed RF Signal Paths.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Take the time to 'find' the best Window in your Apartment
that the Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave Antenna
works in : Best Signals and Lowest Noise.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Question ? Is your Window Sill and Window Frame Metal ?
or Painted / Plastic / Wood Covered Metal ? :
1 - Then keep the Sony AN-LP1 Active Loop Shortwave
Antenna centered in the Window and away from the Metal.
2 - Then keep the Wires of the RF Systems T2FD Antenna
at least 3~6 Inches away from the Metal.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
First - Nine (9) Square Feet of Signal Capture Area is a Fraction (1/7th) of 68 Square Feet and you should Not Expect the same RF Signal Levels.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Second - The Wire Antenna Element is no-longer a physically shaped balanced Loop (O) -but- a jumble
of Crossed Wires and Signal Paths.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Third - The Wire Antenna Element is no-longer Out
In-the-Air and away from the Homes Envelope of Man Made Noise : The Wire Antenna Element is
Inside the Appartment and within the Buildings
Envelope of Man Made Noise.

* ? Question Joe - How is this Nonsense ?
Result : Lower RF Signal Levels plus Higher RF Noise Levels.

DPM,

The two key things i see here are :

XM-SIRIUS 'you' can have a Monopoly -provide- That 'we' can buy into your Direct Radio Satellite Service "At Cost"; and you have to set-a-side 50% of your capability for 'us'
to use "At Cost". Other Non-Satellite Audio Content Providers get to Ride-A-Long on the XM-Sirius Satellites
"At Cost".

Basically all 'new' US Type Approved Radios will eventually be "All Mode" {Digital} AM/FM/DS Radios.

No doubt....it's gonna suck.

Interestingly, both XM and Sirius, having created a loyal, if small, customer base by appealing to those who do NOT want to suffer through CCU style programming, may be indundated with CCU style programming anyway...by CCU's insistenence...not XM or Sirius'. Meaning that, now, a competitor can directly dictate a company's content by mandate? Bullshit.

Further, if an indecency mandate should be part of the merger decree, one of the key selling points for moving away from the overhomogeninzed pap and pablum of terrestrial radio evaporates. Ending most uneditied comedy channel content, and re-shackling Howard Stern.

But the key provision is an FCC mandate that all satellite radios include HD terrestrial reception. First step to an all digital broadcasting conversion....a stated goal of both iBiquity AND Powell's FCC.

If CCU prevails here...XM and Sirius in trouble.

And iPod sales will spike.

Unless the NAMBLA guy suffers from Multiple Personality Disorder, I still support the single-poster theory. I don't care whether we call him Eduardo, NAMBLA guy, or Joe Smoke, but I think it's one guy who uses one name to stir things up and a second name to create a distraction and extricate himself. Time will tell.

New York City has a new Governor, something like that.His name is David Patterson, OK with me.The little City of Clinton,Mississippi about five miles West of jackson, West of doggys couch, got it's name from a former Governor of New York State, although I have no idea why.It's OK with me.

"HFCC discussions on future of DRM"

"From both formal and informal discussions among participants at the HFCC, it is now clear that the proposed DRM (Digital Radio Mondiale) system, that would have converted analogue Shortwave to digital, FM like quality reception would hardly be implemented if ever on a large scale, beyond the current experimental stage... there are no plans from any large manufacturer to produce such (DRM) receivers now."

1586. Don't Need HD Radio

I have an observation I'd like to share.

My dad who is 82 bought a Bose Wave Radio 10 years ago, & the age of 72. The radio sounds really great and the CD player is even better. I can't say enough good things about Bose's Wave Radio. He also has a computer and is even online too. Not bad for an old guy right! Well at 82 my dad just bought a "46" flat screen TV and ordered the high definition package from Direct TV. He loves his music and is a regular user of radio too.

Here's my point. my dad is satisfied with the benefits of his current radio. But recognized the need to upgrade to a flat screen TV with HD. HD Flat screen TVs are selling! HD radio's are not. Maybe most consumers are happy with their current radio selection and see no need to upgrade. The reverse is different for HD TV... Once you'd experience high def TV there's no going back to old technology..

For the users of this group are you happy with the sound of your current radio's?

Would you replace your analog TV's before ditching radios?

I'd ditch TV's because there's a big improvement with HD TV..

Scooter...
